IN ANNUAL CONVENTION About One Hundred Teachers Attend Friday's Meeting-E. A. Case Elect-

The 60th annual meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Teachers' association was held in the auditorium at Windham High school Friday. About one hundred teachers were present A business meeting was held at 10 fs a. m. at which the minutes of the last meeting were read. A. B. Handy, F. W. Clapp and R. H. Bellows were appointed a committee on resolutions. The report of the nominating committee was given as follows: President, B. A. Case of Willimantic, vice president, C. E. Wheeler; secretary-treasurer, R. H. Bellows of North Grosvenordale. The report of the committee was accepted and the secretary instructed to cast one ballot for these officers.

Claude C. Russell, assistant superintendent of schools in New Haven, addressed the meeting on Some Phases of the Work in Arithmetic. He said: From my observation in viting many schools in this state I am inclined to believe that arithmetic is by far the best taught subject in the public schools. To it the teacher is giving the very best hour of the day in most cases and also to it she is giving the greatest amount of energy and often-ses and also to it she is giving the catest amount of energy and often-nes the greatest amount of time in preparation for the work.

If you are able to compare the results obtained in this subject of arithmetic to such subjects as history, geography, English or reading you will find that the results are on the side of arithmetic.

If we are going to secure more efficient results in this subject we ought to have a very definite aim. Now, what are the most practical results to be secured in teaching this subject? First, accuracy of a reasonable degree and facility in fundamental operation are first of greatest importance. Second, ability to apply this to ordinary problems arising in every day life.

Supt. Hayward Speaks. Edward Hayward, superintendent of schools at Cohoes, N. Y., was the next speaker, his subject being The New in Education? Education is either a process or a result. As a pro-cess we think of education as bring-ing a man to his best possible self. The first man in the history of edu-The first man in the history of education to give the world something new was Socrates. You know how he went to different classes of men and convinced them that they did not know their own business. So today there is not an institution of learning that is not different because Socrates have and transfer that the came lived and taught. After him came Plato and Plato had a pupil named Aristotle. And Aristotle taught Alexander the Great. Alexander the Great made himself in a sense master of the world. He decided that Orientalism would contaminate the manufacture of the month. world. He decided that Orientalism would contaminate the world so he stamped it out of Greece. Whatever new ideas we have in education we are Greek in our idea of education and we are because Socrates, Plato, Aristotle and Alexander the Great held Greek ideas. The Greek idea of education means through harmonious development of the individual.

Necessity of Progress.

The world is progressing. Are we as teachers progressing with the world or are we falling back? We started our public school system in America to teach the three Rs. It seems to me that those three things Necessity of Progress. are just as important today as ever.
The child must read. Because he cannot depend upon his own experience in life alone. We must read in any in life alone. We must read in occupation in life. Books are the greatest factors for good in the world. We must teach the child to write. In early days the home supplemented the education of the child in the physical ground. Boys and girls were brought up to work. The average boy and girl and girls are not helping at beme. We are living in flats and there isn't any thing to do at home.

So we have to have classes in man training and domestic science.

Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session the meeting was called to order by President E. A. Case at 2.30. A resolution was read by the chairman of the resolution committee, thanking all who had helped to make things pleasant and thanking the retiring officers for the work during the past year.

Samuel J. Clawson, superintendent of schools in Bridgeport, spoke on the subject of education. He spoke of the different types of children who must at a certain period of life find certain means of expression and that must at a certain period of life find certain means of expression and that it was his belief that if these qualities of life are not given expression at the proper time an unbalanced life may be the result. That there are periods in the life of these children which are perfect natural and it is our function to see that these instincts are given self-expression.

Something has been left out of education, I find in Connecticut that there is a great deal of formal discipline in the old sense of the word, that children must be corrected and march in time. If it exists in your school and you are a party to it, it is my belief that your work is not helpful but is liable to be of serious injury.

Pleads For the Old. I am going to plead for the old in education, not the new. A return to those days when the mother would tell the girl what was necessary for her to know of domestic science, etc. When the father would tell his son When the father would tell his son after the day's work was done about the work of the next day. When he created in the boy during his developing years a desire to know something of the real problems of life. To return to those conditions is absolutely impossible, to supply some of those fundamental principles is not wholly impossible. But it is a tremendous problem.

What a difference in the instruction you are giving today. You may in-you are giving today. You may in-sist that it is the duty of history to fill the child's mind and memory with fill the child's mind and memory with historical facts and data. He places upon paper the answer to the list of questions you want him to give. That is the old time measure of education, I wouldn't give anything for it. You cannot measure ability to do by examinations. The first test Dr. Butler gives is on the use of English and the power of the child to express himself in a language. Knowledge is not power, never was, never will be. Power is the ability to use knowledge.

Principal Marcus White Speaks.

Principal Marcus White Speaks. Marcus White of the State Normal chool at New Britain was the last speaker and spoke of Oral and writ-ten English. He said that a pupil must write if you want him to, but he must write his own story as far as possible, not something from a book and it must part of himself. People the child's interest is in his work, and right, but if it is not you can go on Following this programme,

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene. Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon. Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than keros sene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not. At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1. 1 cents per horse power per hour. Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?
